David Tarlo Joins ExhibitRecruiter

8/18/2011 - ExhibitRecruiter, an agency known for recruiting in the trade show exhibit industry throughout the U.S. and Canada is capitalizing on the firm's unprecedented momentum of the past few years and has added another dynamic professional to their team. They announced the addition of David Tarlo as the newest member of its growing team. Tarlo has joined the agency as to lead the Museum and Branded Environments division. Specifically, Tarlo will partner with firms that design, produce and install museum exhibitions, marketing environments, corporate showrooms, lobbies and briefing centers.

In addition to his consulting role with the agency, Tarlo will manage the user experience of ExhibitRecruiter's e-recruitment site, ExhibitPeeps.com. Familiar with both the inner working of the site experience itself as well as an extensive knowledge about the industry, David will be providing support for both Employers and Job Seekers on the site. David reviews each profile that comes in and can offer suggestions and help for Job Seekers. Employers needing assistance with searches and general questions will find his help invaluable. Having David on the team will also mean faster response for all the users of the site.

Prior to joining ExhibitRecruiter, Tarlo was a project manager for a specialty environmental design firm. "David's experience, energy and enthusiasm will contribute greatly towards ExhibitRecruiter's tremendous growth and success," explains Cal Cook, Principal. "We are excited to have David join our team and lead our new branded environments division."
